

New Hope Christian Church

Disciples Making Disciples

Zionsville, Boone County, and New Hope Christian Church (NHCC) have been an integral part of my life. I was in attendance at the first service of New Hope in 1972, baptized at New Hope in 1976, and have been a lifelong member. I have been mentored by many current members and count it an honor and privilege to disciple many students and adults on mission trips, serving by their side, and hosting small groups at our home.

Michele and I have been married for 27 years, and raised our two children, Jon and Jennifer in Boone County and at NHCC. Jon is a junior at Purdue University where he is studying mechanical engineering technology, a cadet in ROTC (Reserve Officers' Training Corps), and a member of the Indiana National Guard. Jennifer recently finished her senior year of high school at Lebanon, and will be matriculating to Milligan College in Johnson City, Tennessee, this fall majoring in biology with plans for medical school.

I love engines; details; learning; driving big trucks, tanks, and farm equipment. I am an engineer at Allison Transmission where I have worked for 27 years. I first became an elder in 1995, and am active on both the mission and finance teams, currently serving as the chairman of the South India Church of Christ Mission. Michele and I, along with many direct family members call New Hope home and take to heart New Hope's mission of disciples making disciples.
